UAPA cae: SIA raids in 20 Kashmir locations

BASHAARAT MASOOD
Srinagar, May 11

THE STATE INVESTIGATION Agency (SIA) Sunday conducted raids at multiple locations in South Kashmir in a case related to sharing of "sensitive and strategic information about security forces and vital installations" through messaging apps, the agency said.

The agency that is an equivalent of the National Investigation Agency (NIA) in Jammu and Kashmir has detained several persons and claimed to have seized incriminating material.

"J&K police are keeping a surveillance on the terror associates and overground workers (OGW) working in Kashmir," SIA said in an official release. "Technical intelligence indicated that a host of sleeper cells in Kashmir were in direct contact with their handlers based in Pakistan and were involved in conveying sensitive and strategic information about security forces and vital installations via messaging apps including but not limited to WhatsApp, Telegram, Signal and soon."

A security vehicle is seen during raids conducted by the SIA across multiple locations, in Kulgam district on Sunday

The SIA was set up in 2021 as the nodal agency for "coordinating with the NIA and other central agencies and shall take such other measures as may be necessary for speedy and effective investigation and prosecution of terrorism related cases".

On Sunday morning, the investigating agency raided 20 different locations in four districts of south Kashmir — Pulwama, Shopian, Kulgam and Anantnag — and conducted searches in a case registered under various sections of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), 1967.

"These terror associates were also involved in online radical propaganda on the behest of terrorist commanders of Lashkar-e-Taiba and Jaish-e-Muhammad, impinging upon the national security and integrity," the SIA said.

"Preliminary investigation has clearly brought out that these entities are actively engaged in terrorist conspiracy, propagating and furthering anti-India narratives aimed not only at challenging the sovereignty and territorial integrity of India but also at inciting disaffection, public disorder, and communal hatred," it said.

Pak sought US help after PM warned of hard retaliation

"IT WAS A hellfire," sources said, underlining that the runway of the PAF base in Rahim Yar Khan was damaged and there was serious damage to the Nur Khan air base in Chaklala, Rawalpindi.

This, sources said, was the critical turning point on May 10, after which Pakistan approached the US.

There were calls between Pakistan Army chief General Asim Munir and US Secretary of State and National Security Advisor Marco Rubio, where they showed their willingness to talk to India.

Rubio called up external affairs minister S Jaishankar who said India was willing to talk, and that was conveyed early on as well.

As a result, Pakistan's Director General of Military Operations reached out to the Indian DGMO around 1 pm on May 10, and a call was set up at 3.30 pm. And they decided to stop firing and military action.

From the Indian perspective, the main objectives since the April 22 Pahalgam terror attack have been achieved: political, military and psychological. The overarching thinking within the government was that there had to be a "cost" to Pakistan's actions that had led them to undertake a cross-border terrorist act killing 26 people, all tourists barring one.

So, in the political vector, this led to a series of diplomatic measures including the most significant one of keeping the Indus Waters Treaty in abeyance. Sources said that with the three wars and the last four decades of cross-border terrorism, Pakistan had violated the fundamental principle of the pact that was concluded "in a spirit of goodwill". It was felt that Pakistan cannot continue to not feel the heat because "blood and water cannot flow together" post-Pahalgam.

In the military vector, India had a playbook from the 2016 Uri surgical strike and 2019 Balakot air strike. Sources said the same thinking of "imposing costs" was there, but the government didn't want to play the same cards — to retain the surprise element.

So, targets and techniques were chosen carefully, which included the nine terror locations in Pakistan and PoK. The three terror sites of Muridke, Bahawalpur and Muzaffarabad were not just high-value terrorist targets, but were also "symbolic" since they represented the headquarters of Lashkar-e-Taiba and Jaish-e-Muhammad.

"The message was clear: we will hit you, and we will hit you in your headquarters, not in some camps," the sources said, underlining the new red line drawn by Delhi.

And, the psychological vector, the source said, was a combination of political and military. "There were two elements to this strategy: raise costs on Pakistan, and that no place is safe for you (terrorists)," sources said.

India, sources said, had been clear about its intention to hit terrorists ever since the Pahalgam terror attack. From Prime Minister Modi to External Affairs Minister Jaishankar to NSA Ajit Doval — they had all indicated this to their counterparts in their phone conversations between April 22 and May 7. And, after the Indian armed forces struck at nine locations on May 7 between 1 am and 1.30 am, the Indian DGMO called up his Pakistani counterpart and told him that India had hit the "carefully chosen" terror targets and that they had not targeted military targets. And finally, a message was sent that if Pakistan wants to talk, India is willing to engage.

The brief and the message to the entire world, who called Indian leaders, was straightforward: "If they fire at us, we fire at them. If they stop, we will stop."

Retail investors going strong

THE MAIN CONCERN is the large build-up particularly on the expiry day, despite an additional extreme loss margin of 2%. The revised guidelines for F&O segment were introduced in November 20, 2024 and implemented in phases till February.

In its July 2024 consultation paper, the regulator had noted that for FY 2023-24, 9.2 million unique individuals and proprietorship firms traded in index derivatives segment of NSE and cumulatively incurred a trading loss of ₹51,689 crore.

After this, Sebi had come up with a slew of measures in October due to change in markets with increased retail participation, offering of short tenure index options contracts, and heightened speculative trading volumes in index derivatives on expiry day. These included upfront collection of option premium from options buyer, removal of calendar spread treatment on the expiry day, intra-day monitoring of position limits, contract size for index derivatives, rationalisation of weekly index derivatives products and increase in tail risk coverage on the day of options expiry.

According to UR Bhatt, director at Alphaniti Fintech, retail investors that had entered the derivatives market during Covid have graduated to a larger ticket size so the definition of retail needs to be revised.

Vinit Bolinjkar, head of research at Ventura Securities, said that Sebi does not want individual investors to lose money to large international players but risk-taking is the nature of the investment community. He added that higher transaction costs, eligibility based on net worth of the individual, and higher margins are some of the things that can be done.

Gensol probe to accelerate

THE MARKET'S REGULATOR had recently appointed Raju and Prasad Chartered Accountants to do forensic audit of Gensol's financial statements between FY 22 and FY 25.

"We are discussing the possibility of a joint investigation. If an inter-departmental team is formed, it will have members from all the agencies," the official said. "Sebi's investigation is progressing well, and they might prepare a groundwork for other agencies. The market regulator might have seized key documents which will be required by other agencies to prove fund diversions and fraud allegations. It's only appropriate for the investigating agencies to join hands," the official said.

The registrar of companies (RoC) is currently probing Gensol and BluSmart for the corporate governance violations under Section 210 of the Companies Act, which gives powers to the central government to probe into the affairs of a company.

Last month, the ED raided the offices of Gensol in two states under the provisions of the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA).

"The MCA, ED, and NFRA come under the same minister (minister for finance and corporate affairs), and since there's going to be work overlap, a multi-disciplinary team of experts/inspectors could reduce the investigation time," the official said.

The MCA is likely to submit report in three months while the forensic auditor has been given six months by Sebi to submit its findings. Experts said that manpower crunch in these investigating agencies could be a trigger behind the joint probe.

On April 15, Sebi had issued an interim order that barred the promoters of Gensol — Anmol Singh Jaggi and Puneet Singh Jaggi — from holding any key managerial positions in the company besides restraining them from dealing in the securities market over alleged involvement in fraudulent activities. In its order, Sebi said that Gensol attempted to mislead the agency, credit ratings companies (ICRA and CARE), lenders and investors by submitting forged conduct letters purportedly issued by its lenders.

In its 29-page order, Sebi also revealed that funds availed by Gensol as loans for procuring electric vehicles were utilised for buying a high-end apartment in The Camellias, DLF Gurgaon, and other personal expenses such as purchasing of golf set, travel and shopping.

Congress wants answers on US role

NOTING THAT EVENTS have changed swiftly in the last 24 hours, he said, "We were all surprised after the announcement of ceasefire was made by the US President through social media." "An attempt was made to internationalise the issues between India and Pakistan. This is for the first time this has happened," he said, asserting that the government must clarify while taking the nation and all parties into confidence.

"What I am saying is that the fact that the US unilaterally announces a ceasefire between two countries so far away. It is unprecedented, has not happened before and they have tried to engulf the discussion to involve Kashmir, which again is unprecedented.

"To say that they will meet at a neutral site, who are they to decide what the neutral site is and who should meet," he said, referring to the US statements.

On Sunday, government sources asserted that India will never accept mediation in the Kashmir issue and the only matter to discuss is Pakistan returning the territory which is under its illegal occupation.

Pilot said PoK is part of India and we have resolved in 1994 to take back Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK). "Has there been a change in that stand? What are the conditions, what are the circumstances, what are the issues on which they will talk and who is a third country to dictate to India- where and when we should meet and how we should meet, that is a question that needs to be answered," he said.
